The President Not to be Moved

What Dr. Boynton Says.

PULSE AT NOON 112—TEMPERATURE 99.2

Patient's Condition at 3 p. m.

This Morning's Bulletin.

The following was issued this morning: EXECUTIVE MANSION, Aug. 25, 8:30 a. m.—The President slept most of the night. He has taken liquid food by the mouth at stated intervals and in sufficient quantity. The bowels have not been renewed. No modification of the parotid swelling has yet been observed. His general condition is much the same as at this time yesterday. Pulse, 103; temperature, 98.5; respiration, 18.

D. HAYES AGNEW, F. H. HAMILTON, J. W. BLISS, J. K. BARNES, J. J. WOODWARD, ROBT. REYNOLDS.

Mr. Blaine's Correct Dispositions. The condition of the President last night was outlined by the following dispatch from Secretary Blaine to Minister Lowell: "Lowell, Minister, London: 'The President has not gained to-day. He has had a higher fever, which began earlier than is usual with his febrile rise. In the afternoon an incision was made in the swollen parotid gland by Dr. Hamilton. The flow of pus therefrom was very small. The one favorable symptom of his swallowing liquid food with apparent relish and digestion has continued, but the general feeling at midnight is one of increased anxiety.'"

It has been repeatedly stated that Mr. Blaine's dispatches gave really a more correct indication of the President's condition than the bulletins of the doctors themselves, and this is borne out by the following statement, which was telegraphed to the Baltimore Sun last night: "A gentleman who conversed with Secretary Blaine to-day says he was more hopeful than yesterday, but far from sanguine as to the President's ultimate recovery. He does not believe the people of this country or of Europe should be misled in regard to the President's real condition, and therefore he has weighed every word contained in the dispatches sent to Minister Lowell, and made sure of the accuracy of the information contained therein before transmitting them. The Secretary has felt that the public had a right to know the truth in regard to the President's condition, and he has not hesitated to go to the physicians and demand to know the private judgment in regard to the probabilities of recovery, and his own opinion has been formed from what he thus learned. The Secretary believes it best to be candid and not mislead the public with false hopes, and he will not knowingly send abroad dispatches the language of which can be misunderstood and create a false impression as to the progress of the case."

The Proposition to Change Quarters. Dr. Agnew was summoned from Philadelphia yesterday by the following dispatch: "WHITE HOUSE, August 24: Subject of removal of President from White House is being seriously considered. We desire your immediate presence. Answer."

Dr. Agnew's Reply. He arrived here last night, and went at once to the White House, when the surgeons went into consultation with each other. This fact and the fact that the President remained until 11:30 o'clock gave rise to a suspicion that something more than a consultation on removal was going on. The urgency of the conference was partially explained, however, by the fact that Dr. Agnew indicated in his telegraphic reply to Dr. Bliss that he hoped the conference could be held last night, as he wanted to be back in Philadelphia to-day. The Cabinet officers went away in company with Dr. Agnew and Hamilton, the surgeons being driven to Attorney-General MacVeagh's. Dr. Hamilton, in reply to questions, said that he could say nothing about the result of the conference. Dr. Agnew said the same, and the Cabinet officers evidently knew nothing except that no decision had been reached.

It seemed that Dr. Hamilton was the one that advocated the removal of the President as soon as practicable, but that it would be impossible to decide as to when, if at all, it would be practicable to remove the President.

Not Prudent Now to Remove the President. The following bulletin was also issued this morning: EXECUTIVE MANSION, Aug. 25, 9:15 a. m.—The subject of the removal of the President from Washington at the present time was earnestly considered by us last night and again this morning. After mature deliberation the conclusion was arrived at by the majority that it would not now be prudent although all agree that it will be very desirable at the earliest time at which his condition may warrant it. We are, moreover, unanimously of the opinion that at no time since the injury has the President exhibited any symptoms of malaria.

Dr. W. W. Corcoran. It was expected that Mr. W. W. Corcoran, now at the White Sulphur Springs, would come on to attend the funeral. He was telegraphed for by Mr. Anthony Hyde, but Mr. Riggs' family, remembering the condition of Mr. Corcoran's health, insisted that he should not be subjected to a long, tedious journey, and telegraphed him he had better remain where he is under his physician's care. This afternoon Mr. Corcoran telegraphed that under those circumstances he would remain at the Springs. Mr. Calderon Carille, another of Mr. Riggs' warmest friends, who was at the Springs, arrived here this morning and went out to view the remains to-day. He was very much distressed.

Final Arrangements. Mr. Glover, of Riggs' bank, has been busy to-day making the final arrangements for the funeral. He had not completed the list of pall-bearers up to a late hour, and declined to furnish the names of those who had consented to serve for publication to-day. The body-bearers will be selected from among the men on the Riggs farm.

NATIONAL BANK notes received for redemption to-day amounted to $185,000.

GOVERNMENT RECEIPTS TO-DAY: Internal revenue, $502,736.53; customs, $713,198.47.

GEORGE A. EMMERT has been appointed a draughtsman in the Supervising Architect's office.

THE SITUATION VIRTUALLY UNCHANGED.

The bulletin issued this morning was signed by all the surgeons. There is nothing particularly satisfactory in it. It says virtually that there has been no change in the President's condition. He had a pretty fair night and continues to take nourishment by the mouth in small quantities. The emaciated have been suspended for the present. This does not signify that they have been attended by bad results as has been intimated. The surgeons do not consider it necessary to give nourishment in this way under the present circumstances, as the stomach is doing all that can be done in the way of assimilating food.

THE TROUBLE WITH THE STOMACH.

The amount of nourishment taken is small, it is true, but is held to be sufficient to sustain the patient for the time being. There is no doubt, however, that he could not last a great while upon such a small diet, while his system is being taxed as it is. The wound in the parotid gland is both a cause of trouble, and the suppurating from it entails a severe drain on his already enfeebled constitution that can only be counteracted by the free use of good, nutritious food, and the healthy action of his stomach. That organ cannot be considered as equal to the occasion. It can hardly be said to meet that requirement until it can take something more substantial than liquid nourishment.

THE INFLAMED GLAND.

is still an object of great concern. The bulletin tells that it has not subsided any. The amount of pus liberated has been small and the good effect of the operation can scarcely be said to have developed. The situation this morning is virtually unchanged and there is good cause for the gravest anxiety.

DR. BLISS STILL HOPEFUL.

Dr. Bliss, who does not get disheartened at anything as hopeful as ever this morning. He admits, however, that there is no improvement in the President's condition as yet. "But, then," he said, "the physicians do not expect any particular change for two or three days yet." He said that the rise in the President's pulse this morning did not signify anything. Just before the morning examination it was 98. The rise was due to the fact that he was coming from sleep. Dr. Bliss said that the parotid gland was now the only thing he was specially anxious about. If the trouble from that removed the President would boom right along, but even the gland did not cause him any alarm, as he expected it to be all right in course of time. There would surely be any change in the gland in two or three days. Dr. Bliss explained that it was not expected that the incision made yesterday would entirely drain the gland. There is, of course, more or less pus along its entire length, and an opening at one point would hardly serve to release it all at once. The pus will necessarily be slow, and that is as the doctors want it. A heavy escape of pus would be more of a drain than they care to subject the President to in his present exhausted condition.

AT 11 O'CLOCK PRIVATE SECRETARY BROWN REPORTED THAT THERE HAD BEEN NO CHANGE IN THE PRESIDENT'S CONDITION SINCE MORNING, AND HE WAS DOING WELL.

DR. BOYNTON NOT SO WELL SATISFIED.

Dr. Boynton came from the President's bedside at 11:30 o'clock. It was plain to be seen that he was not satisfied with the situation. In answer to the usual inquiries he said there had been very little change in the President's condition, but he did not think it was as well as yesterday.

THE PHYSICIANS' CONFERENCE.

The excitement over the conference of the physicians last night continued this morning. The public became imbued with the idea that the consultation was for some other and more serious purpose than the question of removing the President. And it is no wonder, for, as a general thing, the public have almost given up hope of his recovery, and the meeting of all the surgeons was looked upon as a most disheartening feature. The general impression was that the case had reached a point when some extreme action was necessary in order to save his life. It is now stated, on good authority, that the

ONLY OBJECT AGNEW WAS TO GET HIS VIEWS ON THE SUBJECT OF THE REMOVAL.

As already stated, the conference held last night was not conclusive. Another conference was held this morning, after the issuance of the 8:30 o'clock bulletin. All the physicians were present, but no one else. The report that the Cabinet officers were in attendance is untrue. Neither Secretary Blaine, Secretary Lincoln or Secretary Hunt were at the White House this morning up to 11 o'clock. Secretary Kirkwood, Secretary Windom, Attorney-General MacVeagh, and Postmaster-General Blair were among the early callers. They did not come together, nor did they meet. None of them remained over ten minutes. They got a copy of the morning bulletin and satisfied themselves that the case was not specially urgent, and then left for their respective departments. Mrs. James and Mrs. MacVeagh were with their husbands, and it will be seen by this statement that the Cabinet officers had nothing to do with the conference this morning. The special bulletin issued at 9:15 o'clock gives the result of the deliberations. The President is not to be removed at any rate. While there was a lack of unanimity in the physicians' views on removal, there was none that a change for the President will be very desirable as soon as an improvement in his condition will permit of it. The bulletin also shows that the physicians consider the President's condition

Too Critical to Admit of His Removal.

They now make an official admission of the President's precarious state. The vote taken on the subject of removal was not unanimous. Dr. Hamilton voted alone in the affirmative. It is pretty generally understood now that he considers such a step as the only means of saving the President. At any rate he is known to have advocated a change of scene, and it was only because the suggestion came from so skilled a surgeon and one so conversant with the case, that Dr. Agnew was sent for, and the question given such serious consideration. Dr. Hamilton has, however, gracefully yielded to the views of the majority.

NO SYMPTOMS OF MALARIA.

One point that ought to be settled to the satisfaction of everybody is the unanimous declaration of the physicians that the President has at no time since the injury exhibited any symptoms of malaria. There has so much been said on this point that the physicians decided to make formal announcement of this fact. It was this view of the case that had a most important bearing in deciding that the President should not be removed; that he was doing as well as he could do where he was, and that his present low condition could not be attributed in any way to the Potomac flats.

DR. AGNEW RETURNS TO PHILADELPHIA.

Dr. Agnew took the train back to Philadelphia again at 10:30 o'clock this morning, which fact in itself would show that he does not anticipate any immediate change in the President's condition. As per previous

THAT EXTRADITION PAPER.

It is of No Avail. After All.

HALIFAX, Aug. 25.—Baron De Rohan, the pretended monk, is at liberty. He has for twenty years been a professional swindler. Frederick Garfield recently signed papers for his extradition on account of robbery, but it is now found that the offense is not an extraditable crime, and De Rohan was cleared.

Saratoga Races.

SARATOGA, Aug. 25.—The first race, Equity stakes, two-year-olds, three-quarters of a mile, was won by Perplex, Balancer second and Col. Sellers third; time, 1:16 1/2. Second race, all ages, $500, one mile and five furlongs, was won by Fireman, Bonheur second and Cinderella third; time, 2:52.

The third race, $300, all ages, one mile, was won by Fair Count, Bultroop second and Jessie K. third; time, 1:42 1/2. The fourth race, North American handicap steeple-chase, full course, was won by Trouble, Franklin second, Postguard third; time, 5:20.

The Usual Result.

MONTREAL, Aug. 25.—A. J. Whitton, Government Inspector of Weights and Measures, has absconded, and is a defaulter to a large amount. The cause is extravagance and gambling. His accounts have not been audited in eighteen months.

W. B. Somerville's Resignation.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—The resignation is announced today of Wm. B. Somerville, superintendent of press transmission of the Western Union Telegraph Company. Mr. Somerville's retirement from the journalistic field is understood to be temporary. He will soon re-engage in press work.

Fatal Accident.

CHICAGO, Aug. 25.—A freight train on the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy road struck a horse and wagon, wrecking five cars and killing Hiram Weiser, brakeman, and fifty cattle, and injuring a large number of others.

Current Rumors in Wall Street.

SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE EVENING STAR. NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—The most of the prominent large operators and bankers and brokers interviewed at the Branch last night were bullish in their views on the stock market. Among these were the Messrs. Seligman, Sage, Woorischoffer, Conner, Hinchinson, and Kennedy, and all these people agreed that the money market would soon gradually work down to 4 and 5 per cent.

Sage and Conner declared that they had never known so many damaging misrepresentations to have been circulated before as had been put out by the opposition within the past six weeks, and they had telegraphed them all over the country for the purpose of breaking down the credit of the country.

Sage said that bear statements had been attributed to him by interviewers which he had never uttered, and he had no sympathy for people who had been so foolish as to credit them. The bears in Western Union, he said, had shaken out a great many holders on reports that the stock would be lowered by the views on the day had come to him, he would have undeceived them.

Conner said that false statements were telegraphed for effect to London yesterday; that the Cabinet had telegraphed for Vice-President Arthur to come to Washington, and that the President's physicians would be changed next week. Similar dispatches were sent to the West. Conner thought the strength of Lake Shore was an indication that there was a foundation for the reports that the Trunk line presidents were getting in line for a new understanding. He believed that the stringency in money had been partly the result of manipulation, and also thought the crops of the country generally would pan out within ten per cent. of last year.

It was announced last night in private circles that an expert in gathering information about the crops, who had been sent West for this purpose by Messrs. Mitchell & Millbank, over the St. Paul and Northwest roads, had just returned after a fortnight's careful investigation, and he had reported that Minnesota and Wisconsin never before raised in the aggregate such large crops of all kinds as this year, and he predicted that these crops would undoubtedly do a larger general transportation business this year than before in their history.
